

HROA Mid-Market Special Interest Group

Benefits of Membership

The HRO Mid-Market Special Interest Group (SIG) is a forum within the HROA intended to bring together various audiences involved in HR outsourcing in the middle market. We define the mid-market as outsourcing three or more HR processes for a population generally ranging from 2,000 to 15,000 employees. This group will unify buyers, providers, advisors and other mid-market stakeholders that focus solely on human resource outsourcing as a subcomponent of multi-tower business process outsourcing (BPO).

The HRO Mid-Market SIG's objective is to provide a platform for all HRO mid-market stakeholders to contribute research, data and best practices to make informed decisions related to the evaluation, purchase, implementation and management of HR process outsourcing. The group's purpose is to establish, evolve and continuously improve the industry standards and practices for mid-market HRO.

Why Join?

The HRO Mid-Market SIG believes that mid-market outsourcing is a cost effective strategic business initiative, which grants access to industry best practices and specialized expertise while improving service quality through enhanced HR capabilities and technology.

The Mid-Market SIG brings together companies seeking to reduce costs, improve quality and enhance employee service in an independent setting to discuss the critical challenges facing their organizations. Members will have the opportunity to share their experiences, hear from experts and benefit from HROA's research, benchmarking and industry standards.

HRO Mid-Market SIG members who participate in the committees will be defining the future practice of the HRO mid-market. Through their participation they help define standards and practices, set the research agenda, determine the events schedule, and contribute their thought leadership to the education of their peers and colleagues. Committees exist to address Research & Tools, Standardization and Practices and Education/Membership.

Joining the Mid-Market SIG
All HROA members are eligible to join the Mid-Market SIG free of charge. We invite Mid-Market SIG members to participate in shaping the industry by getting involved in the various committees.
